

THE 2ND NEU – ADBI JOINT INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

Policy and Strategic Responses in Asia under Geopolitical and Macroeconomic Turbulence

March 27-28, 2025

Waseda University, Tokyo, Japan

The National Economics University (NEU) in Hanoi, Vietnam, and the Asian Development Bank Institute (ADBI) in Tokyo, Japan, are delighted to announce our second joint international conference on “Policy and Strategic Responses in Asia under Geopolitical and Macroeconomic Turbulence”, which will be held at Waseda University in Tokyo, Japan on March 27-28, 2025. This international conference aims to discuss policy and strategic responses to maintain economic stability and growth in Asian economies with a special emphasis on economic, business and wellbeing issues under geopolitical turbulence and macroeconomic uncertainties around the world recently.

Topics

We cordially invite the submission of original research contributions encompassing a wide spectrum of topics. Suggested areas include, but are not limited to:

- Monetary policy responses
- Fiscal policy responses
- Trade impacts
- The role of digitalization in addressing economic shocks
- Public health policy
- Government transfer programs
- Support for micro-, small and medium-sized enterprises (MSMEs)

Publication

The accepted papers will be invited for presentation at the conference, and then considered for publication in a special issue of Journal of Economics and Development (Scopus-indexed).

The accepted papers will also have other chances to be published in a special ISI/Scopus journal issue to be announced later, tentatively scheduled in 2025.

Travel Arrangements

Limited travel support will be available. The travel costs of one author per paper may be covered.
